Case's Leatherboard Plant at Hop River Burned—A Total Loss.

Thursday morning about 5 o'clock a fire broke out in Case's leather works plant at Hop River and practically destroyed the buildings. C. C. Case of this city was the principal owner. The fire originated in the loft used for drying, and spread rapidly. A great many insurance companies do not take risks on this class of property and those that do have their rates so high that it is impracticable to carry insurance, and none was carried on the plant destroyed, making the loss a complete one, well up in the thousands, because of the expensive character of the machinery used in the manufacture of leather boards.

The mill property comprised a part of the old Hop River warp factory, a new brick building and a new wooden structure, all connected. The only part of the plant that was saved was a portion of the old mill mill. Both machine and finishing rooms were wholly destroyed, and a considerable quantity of leatherboard that was ready for shipment.

Mr. Case received notification of the fire shortly after it broke out and hastened to the plant in an automobile and was busy all day Thursday supervising the work of saving what he could from the ruins.

He was manager and principal owner of the plant and also has sole charge as administrator of the estate of his father, who recently died, of the mills in Andover, two in number, one a fine brick structure built about three years ago.

It is not known what Mr. Case's plans for the future are relative to the destroyed plant at Hop River, which includes, in addition to a good water privilege, a number of tenement houses where employees of the consumed plant live, and who are now thrown out of work. This is a heavy blow to them as well as to Mr. Case for mills of the class burned are run continuously, day and night, most of the time, and men were at work when the fire was discovered Thursday morning. It cannot be stated what the total loss will figure, but it is pretty large.

The reflection was seen by many people in this city Thursday morning.

WEDDING.

White-Armstrong.
Miss Elizabeth A. Armstrong and Frederick Sanford White, both of South Coventry, were married Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Armstrong. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Nestor Light, pastor of the Congregational church of South Coventry. Owing to sickness at the home of the bride the wedding was attended only by relatives.

Mr. White is the youngest son of Mrs. Sarah White and the late Nathan C. White, and is associated with his brother, C. E. White, in the lumber business.

Mr. and Mrs. White are to make their home in South Coventry. The bride received many handsome gifts.

Dr. J. S. Chagnon Goes to North Dakota.
Dr. J. S. Chagnon, who has been practicing in this city for a number of years, left Thursday morning for Montreal, where he will spend a week visiting relatives. There he will meet his sister, Mrs. Desmarais, who was recently his guest in this city, who not having seen each other previously for several years. The doctor will go to North Dakota, after doing several Canadian points of interest, and will open an office in the great northwest. If he finds the location satisfactory he will move his family there and locate in that state permanently. His office in this city will be closed for six months at least, pending his final decision in the matter of a permanent change in location.

Basketball Games.
The next game of basketball of any importance to be played in this city will be that of the Glastonbury five vs. the Thread City Cyclers next Monday night. The game will be played at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. The visiting team is reputed to be a fast aggregation and a fine game is anticipated. The Cyclers will have their strongest lineup for the game and the same will be announced later.

CITY PROMOTERS.
Size Up Local Gas, Electric and Power Possibilities.

A number of rumors are going the rounds as a result of a meeting of five men in this city Thursday, known to be vitally interested in the gas and electric business. All are men thoroughly posted on the subject and a number are affiliated with some of the largest companies dispensing the lighting and heating as well as power products in the New England states.

Four of the gentlemen arrived on the express from Boston in the morning and the other stepped off of the New York express at noon.

An inspection was made of the local plant of the Willimantic Gas & Electric Co. and then dinner was taken at the Hooker house, and immediately thereafter they held a conference, the import of which is merely a matter of conjecture to those not on the inside, for the present time at least.

Alexander J. Campbell, general manager of the New London Gas & Electric Light Co., was one of the party, but did not show any disposition to acquaint the public of the purpose of the meeting.

He did admit, however, that they had made an inspection of the local plant and that all of the men present at the meeting were prominently identified with the gas and electric business in its varied phases. He would not give the names of the other gentlemen present, but one was M. J. Warner of New York, who owns, it is said, a large portion of stock, and is connected with the Connecticut Power & Lighting Co. in an official capacity. One of the five came from Boston, and when the men called at the office in the forenoon a letter of introduction was produced from Mr. Lewis of Boston, who is the principal owner of the plant in this city.

F. F. Church, the vice president of the local company, would only say that the visitors had come here to see the city and he showed them around. It is intimated that a deal is under way whereby a combine of a number of companies in this vicinity may be effected or that the present plant is to change owners.

Will Play Off Tie at Putnam.
After an ineffectual attempt on the part of the Captain and Manager Kelley of the Windham high school basketball team and a representative of the Killingly high school team of Danielson to obtain a suitable floor at a fair price in Norwich, it has been agreed to lay off the tie in the Windham county inter-scholastic league at the Putnam on the evening of March 5.

Windham is practicing hard for the match and will exert herself to the utmost to win the deciding game. A large contingent of rooters will accompany the team from this city. Killingly will likewise be well represented and the rooters in Putnam will divide their sympathies with both visiting teams. Taken altogether, it will be a gala night and an event that will be well worth attending.

A hearing was held at the meeting of the sewer assessment committee of the common council in the council chamber Thursday evening, at which about a score of citizens were present. The assessing of the extent and benefit of sewers connected in the city through the streets of the city was taken up in the order of construction and abutters or their representatives present found that their assessments upon the information requested when remonstrances were called for to be as follows:

William G. Duce Resigns.
William G. Duce will close his long term of service as master mechanic for the Ashland Cotton company of this place Saturday night. Duce's resignation is both tendered and accepted with the deepest regret. He has in his more than twenty years of service been a faithful, capable man, which fact is fully recognized by the company. Mr. Duce was not only one of the oldest employees of the Ashland company, but is one of the veteran master mechanics of the state. He received the appointment in 1890, the place being made vacant by the advancement of A. R. Young to superintendence. He was always of an inventive turn of mind, because of which fact he made himself doubly valuable to the company, always being in the mechanical line in his interest. Twelve years ago he was severely injured by the bursting of a penstock in the wheel pit of the old mill, the result having been a complete paralysis. Employees and friends wish him many years of comfort in his pleasant home on South Main street.

It was found that there was 25 times as much ice as there was wood. C. N. Talbot had a handsome young peach orchard which was completely broken down. Last year was the first bearing time.
